MULTITHREADING

1. Write a java program for the following scenario.

   Maintain a bank account of customers. Several transactions, such as deposit some amount to an account and withdraw some amount from an account etc. are possible. Now, for a given account, if two or more transactions come simultaneously then only one transaction should be allowed at a time instead of simultaneous transaction processing so that data inconsistency will never occur.